9 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
10 CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

11 Beardog Publishing Company, a Texas
12 corporation,

13 Plaintiff,

14 v.

15 Geoff Stradling,

16 Defendant.
17

Case No. 2:17-CV-00913
_____

COMPLAINT FOR COPYRIGHT INFRINGEMENT

(Assigned to the Honorable _____)

18
19
20 Plaintiff, for its Complaint against Defendants, states as follows:

21
22 JURISDICTIONAL ALLEGATIONS
23

24 1. This is an action arising under the copyright laws of the United States, 17
25 U.S.C. § 101 et seq.

26 2. Plaintiff Beardog Publishing Company (“Beardog”) is a Texas
27 corporation with its principal place of business in Havelock, North Carolina.

28 3. Defendant Geoff Stradling is a resident of California.

1           4.     Upon information and belief, Stradling is married. All his actions by
2 alleged herein were taken for the benefit of his marital community.

3           5.     This Court has jurisdiction over the subject matter of this action pursuant
4 to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1338.

5           6.     Jurisdiction and venue are appropriate.
6

7                                   GENERAL ALLEGATIONS
8

9           7.     When sheet music of a copyrighted music composition is created, whether 10 digital or physical, a license from the rights holder(s) for that composition must be 11 obtained.

12           8.     When sheet music is created for the use of a specific music ensemble, the 13 arrangement is known as a “custom arrangement.”

14           9.     The license that must be obtained for a custom arrangement is commonly
15 referred to as a “custom arrangement license.”

16           10.    Throughout the United States, high school show choirs often participate in 17 extracurricular competitions and festivals for awards and ranking positions.

18           11.    To create an advantage, many show choirs, through their directors and/or 19 separate booster clubs, hire music arrangers to create custom arrangements for 20 exclusive use by their particular show choir.

21           12.    For example, an arranger might create an arrangement for SATB
22 (soprano-alto-tenor-bass) for a mixed choir, or the arranger may create an arrangement
23 for TTBB (two tenor parts and two bass parts) for a men’s choir.

24           13.    The custom arrangements typically also include instrumental 25 accompaniment.

26           14.    After a custom arrangement is created, it is duplicated and distributed by 27 the arranger to the show choir director, who typically duplicates and distributes it to 28 show choir members to learn and perform.

1           15. The arranger and/or director also duplicates and distributes the custom
2 arrangement to professional bands, who accompany the choirs in performances of the 3 custom arrangement.

4           16. Typically, an arranger arranges an entire show, which is called a “set” in
5 the show choir industry, by stringing custom arrangements of several popular songs
6 back to back.

7           17. A set typically lasts about 15 to 20 minutes.

8           18. These sets almost always contain music that is protected by active
9 copyrights.

10          19. Where the arrangers and show choir directors create arrangements of 11 music that is protected by copyright, they must obtain permission before creating,
12 duplicating, and distributing custom arrangements.

13          20. Beardog wholly owns and controls the copyrights in certain works of 14 Clint Ballard, Jr. As a copyright owner, Beardog is able to issue all types of copyright
15 licenses for its works. Beardog issues custom arrangement licenses, in addition to 16 various other types of licenses.

17          21. Beardog wholly owns and controls the copyright in the song “You’re No
18 Good,” which was composed by Clint Ballard, Jr.

19          22. The applicable copyright registration numbers for You’re No Good are 20 EU0000781481 and RE0000518940.

21          23. Beardog has standing to bring this lawsuit.

22          24. Defendant Geoff Stradling is a professional music arranger.

23          25. One aspect of Stradling’s arranging business includes arranging for high
24 school show choirs.

25          26. In the 2015-2016 academic year, Stradling was hired to arrange a show
26 choir set for a show choir called In Sync at Burbank High School.

27          27. Stradling arranged the set in the form of sheet music.

28 ///

1           28. Upon information and belief, Stradling received compensation in
2 exchange for his arrangement of the set.

3           29. That set included custom arrangements of numerous songs protected by 4 active copyrights.

5           30. Within that set, Stradling created a custom arrangement of You're No
6 Good.

7           31. After creating the custom arrangement of You're No Good (among others
8 in the set), Stradling duplicated the sheet music and distributed it to Brett Carroll, the 9 director of the Burbank Show Choirs.

10          32. Upon information and belief, the sheet music of You're No Good was 11 distributed by Carroll to members of the show choir for purposes of learning and 12 performing it.

13          33. Further, upon information and belief, the sheet music of You're No Good
14 was distributed to instrumentalists to accompany the show choir during performances
15 of the set.

16          34. Additionally, professionally paid choreographers were hired to 17 synchronize dancing with the custom arrangements and teach it to the show choir.

18          35. Upon information and belief, hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent 19 on the Burbank show choir's set that included You're No Good, which allowed for,
20 inter alia, arrangement of the set, synchronizing it with choreography, preparing
21 costumes, traveling to numerous competitions and festivals throughout the country,
22 paying admission fees to such competitions, paying for professional instrumental 23 accompaniment, and paying for professional lighting.

24          36. Some performances of the set that includes You're No Good were 25 captured on video and posted to YouTube.com. For example, one performance of the 26 set was posted on YouTube.com on April 25, 2016 by a user named Brian Johnson.

27 The                   video                   is                   located                   at 28 <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ch6fGXfnVSE&list=RDch6fGXfnVSE>.

1           37. On January 19, 2017, the same performance was posted to YouTube by a
2 user named Robert Sabree. That video is available at 3 <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=4KRTtg1TvBY>. That video is entitled “Burbank
4 In Sync 2016 at Fairfield,” and the description provides, “Burbank In Sync performing
5 their competition show at the Fairfield Crystal Classic.”

6           38. The Fairfield Crystal Classic is a show choir competition held each year
7 in Fairfield, Ohio.

8           39. Upon information and belief, the same Burbank show choir performed the 9 set that included You’re No Good at numerous other performances, competitions, and 10 festivals throughout California and the United States in 2016.

11           40. At no time did Stradling obtain permission from Beardog to create a
12 custom arrangement of You’re No Good or to duplicate or distribute it to the Burbank
13 show choir.

14           41. Stradling’s infringement was willful.

15           42. When Stradling was hired to create the arrangement, he knew of an
16 ongoing copyright dispute that involved four parties: a music licensing company
17 called Tresóna Multimedia, LLC; Brett Carroll, a music director; the Burbank High
18 School Vocal Music Association booster club; and Josh Greene, an arranger who had 19 arranged for the Burbank show choirs before Stradling.

20           43. Greene had made musical arrangements for the Burbank show choirs for 21 several years before that dispute arose. But during that dispute, Carroll stopped hiring
22 Greene to make musical arrangements for the Burbank show choirs, because Greene
23 refused to arrange copyrighted works without permission. After firing Greene and 24 hiring Stradling, Carroll refused to divulge the identity of the new arranger.

25           44. Stradling knew licensing was required for the custom arrangement of 26 You’re No Good that he created. But he willfully created that arrangement without 27 acquiring permission, while participating in a scheme to keep his identity unknown.
